Applied Vision uses a structural approach to facilitate you achieving the results that you want -in your personal, professional life or business. This approach enables you to create what you want rather than reacting or problem solving.

This structural model, known as the 'creative framework' encourages individuals and groups to take personal responsibility for knowing what they want and achieving this. A creative process is applied to determine the desired end results and, after establishing the current reality, you will be assisted to transcend obstacles identified in creating what you want.

Coaching can take the form of 'one-off' single sessions or on-going as required - whatever is needed.

Invest in YOU and your future!      By doing so, you will receive .....

- Clarity around what you want
- Understanding what gets in the way
- Information that will help you achieve what you want
- An action plan to take you from where you are to where you want to be
- Knowledge of how to create and sustain your desired results
- Tools that you can apply in future to other areas of your business, professional or personal life.
